

Suggested Interview Questions for Peter Stekel, author of Final Flight:

- How did you get involved with researching the story that eventually became Final Flight?
- What were you doing on Mendel Glacier in Kings Canyon National Park?
- When you found the body, which turned out to be the remains of Glenn Munn, how did you feel? How did you react?
- How is it possible for human remains and a government airplane to go missing from a routine flight?
- How is it possible that the Airmen and wreckage were not discovered until 2005 and 2007, respectively?
- How did the remains become mummified and stay intact for over 60 years?
- How did the families react to the news that missing relatives had been found?
- How did you find the remains and wreckage?
- How were the remains and wreckage authenticated?
- How did the government react to your discovery?
- Your research was meticulous, yet you were met with many roadblocks and stonewalls: empty graves, botched records, bad weather on your expeditions, bad luck, and bad timing, just to name a few. What were the challenges in researching this project, and how did you overcome them to unveil this miraculous story and recovery?

REVIEW COPIES, AUTHOR INTERVIEWS AND APPEARANCES ARE AVAILABLE

Media Contact:

Roslyn Bullas

publicity@wildernesspress.com

800-443-7227

Or author Peter Stekel

peter@finalflightthebook.com

Available from Wilderness Press

September, 2010

ISBN: 978-089997-475-0

$15.95 US, trade paperback